Meet the Speakers

Lee Ann Brady, DMD maintains a limited clinical practice focused on comprehensive restorative. She became a full-time faculty member at the Pankey Institute in 2005, became Clinical Director in 2006, and joined the Spear Institute as VP of clinical education in 2009. In addition to her teaching responsibilities she maintains a limited clinical practice focused on comprehensive restorative.

Steve Ratcliff, DDS joined the Visiting Faculty of The Pankey Institute in 1995, became their full-time Clinical Director in 2002, and was appointed Director of Academic Affairs in 2003.

About the Course

Beautiful esthetic results don't happen by accident. They are the result of complete diagnosis, careful planning, patient involvement, and frequent and plentiful communication between ceramist and dentist. When is the best time to begin talking with one another? Who makes the decisions? What does effective communication look like? What role does each team member have in the process of helping patients make choices about their care? We want our patients to love the dentistry we do with them and we want the results to be predictable, comfortable, functional, and most of all long lasting. How do we work together to make sure what the patient is asking for is achievable? Lee and Steve will bring their experiences of working with master ceramists and creative team members to help you create your own version of dynamic working relationships.
